My Philosophy of Walking. Walking is one of the most basic things a person does, but I believe it is one of the most fulfilling. Walking is an adventure, walking is a meditation, walking is self-actualization. I don't want to reinvent the wheel or teach grandmothers to suck eggs, ...

My Philosophy of Walking - My Wanderlust Walking

"Walking causes a repetitive, spontaneous poetry to rise naturally to the lips, words as simple as the sound of footsteps on the road. There also seems to be an echo of walking in the practice of two choruses singing a psalm in alternate verses, each on a single note, a practice that makes it possible to chant and listen by turns.

A Philosophy of Walking Quotes by Frédéric Gros

In the essay, "Walking," by Henry David Thoreau, one of the "Seven Elements in Nature Writing," which is continuous throughout the entire essay, is the philosophy of nature. Thoreau begins his three-part essay by referring to human's role in nature "as an inhabitant, or a part or parcel of Nature."
